

Postdoctoral Positions

The Department of Mathematics at ETH Zurich invites applications for postdoctoral positions in all areas of mathematics. These positions are awarded for two years with start date September 1, 2016 and the possibility of extension to three years. Applicants must have completed their doctoral studies by the start date of the appointment, and preferably no more than three years before. Applications should demonstrate dedication to and strong promise in research. The teaching load of these positions is light, and courses may be taught in English.

We specifically encourage women to apply for these positions.

For full consideration, applications should be received by November 16, 2015. Late applications will be considered for any positions remaining open at the time they are received.

Applications can only be made electronically, using the form
